CROWNS WYDER (SUI) AND BOBACH (DEN) SPECTACULAR WOC-WTOC DAY-1 IN ITALY

Soren Bobach of Denmark seizes the Sprint World title
Judith Wyder (SUI) has no rivals amongst women
Alexandersson (SWE) and Hubmann (SUI) wear silver
Opening ceremony tomorrow in Asiago

Red and white flags waving in beautiful Venice. Soren Bobach of Denmark and Judith Wyder of Switzerland took gold medals in today's World Championships Sprint in Italy. They respectively beat overall World Cup leader Tove Alexandersson and Sprint superstar Daniel Hubmann, while Maja Alm and Tue Lassen (DEN) seized bronze.

After closing in second position the qualifying round, Wyder looked like a sure winner already from the start of the final race. The Swiss finished 11.9 seconds ahead of Alexandersson, whilst Alm left back Volynska (UKR) and Eliasson (SWE). In the men's class, Bobach came in tenth in the qualification heat, but his final race was simply flawless. The Dane eventually crossed the finish line 2.1 seconds ahead of Hubmann.

The 2014 WOC-WTOC, for the first time ever in Italy, continues tomorrow with the official opening ceremony in Asiago at 6pm. A Model Temp-O is scheduled tomorrow at 10am in Valsugana (Trentino region).

Along with the WOC-WTOC races, the promo event '5 Days of Italy' with over 2000 participants from all over the planet started off in the morning with a Prologue in the venetian lagoon, and goes on tomorrow at 2pm in Turcio, near Asiago.

ANALYSIS:

WOC SPRINT 2014 WOMEN

The sprint in Venice was a mix of routechoice legs and navigationally technical legs. Several of the favourites did some big routechoice mistakes (or other mistakes) losing them the place on the podium.

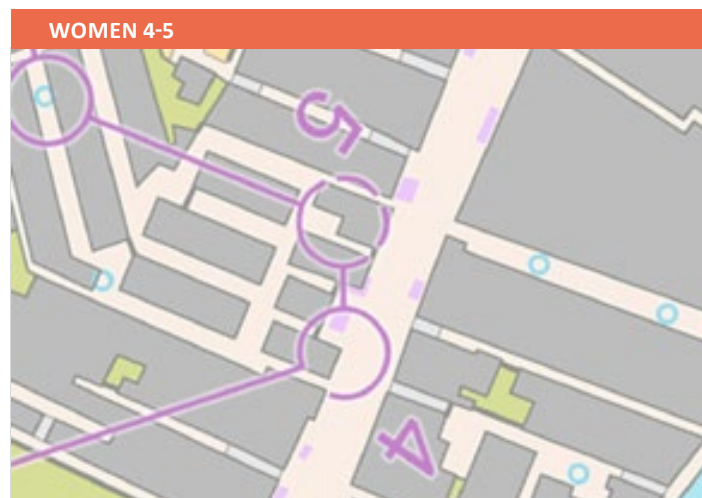

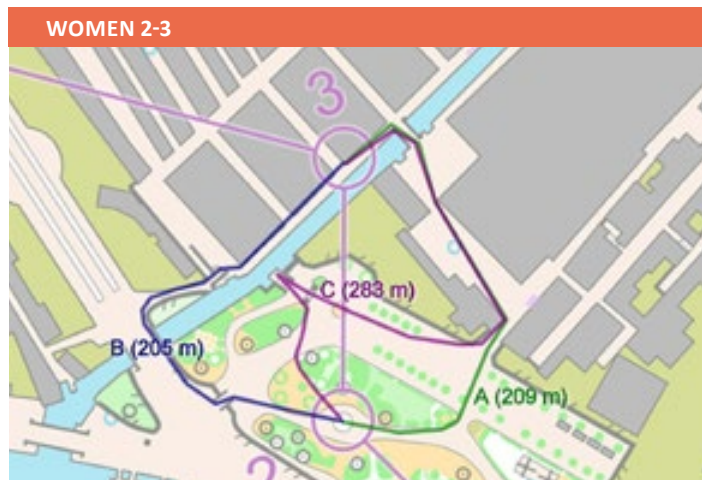

Below detailed splits tables and route choice options are included for each leg. For the legs of special interest (legs which were decisive with respect to route choices taken by the runners), the variant each runner took in included in the table below the map.

SUMMARY: MOST DECISIVE LEGS

The following were the most decisive legs - with respect to the medals:

Leg 1: Note how Maja Alm loses 4 seconds already to the first control - having only 30th best split time. No special routechoice challenges here.

ANALYSIS:

WOC SPRINT 2014 MEN

The sprint in Venice was a mix of routechoice legs and navigationally technical legs. Quite a few legs were without routechoice options - and usually most of the runners chose the correct route. However, several of the favourites did some big routechoice mistakes (or other mistakes) losing them the place on the podium.

Below detailed splits tables and route choice options are included for each leg. For the legs of special interest (legs which were decisive with respect to route choices taken by the runners), the variant each runner took in included in the table below the map.

SUMMARY: MOST DECISIVE LEGS

The following were the most decisive legs - with respect to the medals:

Leg 1: Note that the biggest favourite Jonas Leandersson loses 5 seconds already to the first control - on an easy technical leg without real route choice options.

Leg 3: This is one of the legs which looks most complex on first sight, but when analyzing it closer, most of the alternatives are nearly equal time-wise. The only thing you can do where you really lose time is to go left (either the variant marked E or a combination of E and B. Both lose you around 8-10 seconds - having to run 50 meters longer. One top favourite loses time here: Matthias Kyburz loses 9 seconds by running E.

Leg 7: At leg 6 Yannick Michels was in second place - but on control number 7 Michiels did a mistake costing 19(!) seconds. Many of the women made mistake on the same leg.

Leg 9: The spectator leg is easy without any technical challenges except for a map exchange. Note how Daniel Hubmann loses 6 seconds here!

Leg 10: Another leg with only one real variant - but yet Matthias Kyburz choses the other one. Except for Kyburz who choses the wrong variant and loses 14 seconds, all top runners pick the right variant here.

Leg 11: This is where Soren Bobach could have lost his gold medal - Bobach having his biggest time loss of 11 seconds choosing the C-variant (which is really a hybrid of the two "real" variants A and B. Bobach said himself that this was his only mistake - the rest of the race was perfect. Two other runners lose significant time on this leg by running variant B: Kvaal and sterb, and Martin Hubmann.

Leg 15: One of the few legs where Tue Lassen loses time; 5 seconds lost on this leg which does not really have any route choice options and is also quite easy technically.

Leg 16: The Swedes Jerker Lysell (7 seconds) and Jonas Leandersson (9 seconds) lose time on this leg without any real route choice options. Not clear why they lose so much.

Leg 17: This is again a leg which looks complex on the map, but with only two real alternatives A and B - and these were quite equal in time. It seems like B was maybe 3-4 seconds faster based on the splits times. Jerker Lysell (6 seconds, B), Matthias Kyburz (6 seconds, A) and Jonas Leandersson (9 seconds A) lose time here.

Leg 19: This is finally the leg which decided the race. Nearly all run B - the best variant. Daniel Hubmann and a few others run A - and lose 10-15 seconds. This decided the medals - and will be remembered for some time ...

ASIAGO 7 COMUNI

UNFORGETTABLE SENSATION OF FREEDOM IN A BREATHTAKING LAND

Almost a world apart: here's how you might define the Plateau of Asiago 7 Comuni (Asiago, Roana, Gallio, Rotzo, Foza, Eneo, Lusiana, Conco). For the breadth and variety of the territory, for the unique environmental characteristics, especially for the history and for the vast amount of opportunities for recreation and relaxation that this land offers to its guests, for these and many other reasons, the plateau most beautiful in the world will surprise you.

With its particular geographical position, Asiago 7 Comuni is a real natural huge sports facility. Some numbers may make people understand the magnitude of this huge "sports field": more than 750 km of unpaved roads for mountain bike can also be used by trekkers and more than 500 miles of groomed trails and reported for cross-country skiing. Hundreds of miles of roads that connect the towns and districts, for those who love cycling, horse riding, golf practice in a field to eighteen holes and gliding can count on an airport with a runway for powered aircraft.

IOF CONGRESS IN ITALY AT WOC-WTOC 2014

In less than two weeks - from 5 to 12 July – Italy is making the official debut in the list of nations that hosted the World Orienteering and Trail Orienteering Championships (WOC-WTOC). Over 2.500 orienteers will be gathering in Trentino and Veneto regions, in the North-eastern part of the country, and ‘we are honored to be the house of the major world event concerning the discipline, Trentino and Veneto are the main areas in which orienteering successfully developed being practiced for years already’, as FISO (Italian Orienteering Federation) President Mauro Gazzero pointed out during the presentation in Venice last week.

As a whole, thousands of people from 54 nations will gather in Italy soon, 500 athletes will battle it out for world medals and the XXVII IOF congress is also to take place in Lavarone during the week, fitting into the busy schedule made of races and trainings.

Since the IOF (International Orienteering Federation) was founded in 1961, the IOF Congress and General Assembly have been held every two years with some exceptions and extraordinary assemblies throughout the years.

The Ordinary GA in Italy is scheduled on Thursday 10 July, while a Pre-General Assembly will take place the day before. During the GA, IOF counsellors and board plus nations’ representatives will analyse and debate what happened since the last GA held in Lausanne (SUI) two years ago and take into consideration future perspectives. Beside the GA, delegates and all the IOF commission members (Foot-O, Ski-O, MTBO, Trail-O, Map, IT, Rules, Environment, Medical) will be involved in workshops, meetings and seminars during the whole week. On Friday 11 July, more meetings are scheduled in which EU federations, Non-EU federations and federations of the Mediterranean area will gather separately. A Developing Seminar is also scheduled with new countries expected to seat at the IOF table. ‘The Congress represents a great chance to draw more attention to the Orienteering world – claimed IOF counsellor Maria Silvia Viti – as in a few days in Italy there will be a huge number of athletes, trainers and nations’ representatives, all invited to take part in our meetings.’

On Thursday 10 July (5pm) a conference named ‘Technology in Orienteering’ will take place at the Astoria Hotel in Lavarone.

IOF DEVELOPMENT CLINIC IN ITALY

For a fourth time the IOF and the World Orienteering Championships organisers hold a development clinic for the newer IOF countries in order to help them develop the sport in their country, and to participate in the World Orienteering Championships.

We welcome the nine countries who send athletes and coaches to the clinic in Italy: Argentina, Azerbaijan, Chile, Colombia, Cyprus, Ecuador, Moldova, Montenegro, Serbia.

During the clinic they have the opportunity to practice in the beautiful terrain and forest of Trentino-Veneto. Several training sessions will be organised close to the WOC village.

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

The Orienteering World Championships (WOC) and the World Trail Orienteering Championships (WTOC) will be held in Trentino and Veneto. The highlands of Folgaria, Lavarone, Luserna in Trentino and Asiago 7 Comuni in Veneto are areas with wonderful landscapes and natural reserves.

A responsible use of natural resources and protection of the ecosystem is a prerequisite for sustainable development.

The organizing committee is committed to use environmental resources in a sustainable way. So we will adopt responsible organizational procedures in order to protect and preserve our forests.

Orienteering is by definition a "sport of the woods". Some of the venues are in the forests in Gallio (loc. Campomulo) and Lavarone, and they are PEFC certified. The sport and sustainability have once again found a reason to proceed on a common path: promoting a greater environmental responsibility and a proper land management.

We are aware of the crucial contribution that a sport like orienteering can lead in communicating the important values of sustainability. So we will also use this opportunity to provide you with complete information on the sustainability of orienteering as the process of sustainable forest management and wood. Specifically, we will make sure to implement the following responsible measures addressed to the organizers, athletes and any other participants.

GUIDELINES FOR THE ORGANIZERS

The conservation project consists of a series of guidelines addressed to all the organizers. These are the guidelines that should be respected in both national and international events:

- Protection of the natural environment along the routes;
- Waste reduction in dining options;
- Waste separation;
- Use of environment-friendly materials;
- Use of sustainable means of transport;
- Eco-friendly prizes.

INFORMATION FOR ALL PARTICIPANTS

The project involves the propagation of information about environment-friendly policies for both spectators and athletes. In particular, we will offer:

- Interventions in schools;
- Information panels;
- Vademecum;
- Questionnaires;
- Info point.

FINAL CHECK-OUT

A committee will evaluate the event on the basis of the project objectives to be achieved in the environmental field, measurable and verifiable in progress and at the end of the manifestations of the same. Our goal is to minimize the impact of the event on the environment: to offset emissions of CO<sub>2</sub> which will be produced during the various stages of organization and the running of the event.

At the end of the events a special report will be published.

RUBBISH / TRASH

An event of the magnitude of WOC 2014 generates a great amount of waste. We have arranged for a system of recycling and collection of rubbish at all the venues. We ask you to use the numerous waste bins that are on site. We are planning to recycle them in coordination with the local communities that host our events.

Plastic, glass, compostable trash and burnable rubbish will be optimally recycled. You will help us making WOC 2014 a 'clean' event by respecting the rules of waste separation.

We have arranged for a sufficient number of toilets close to the starts in the forest and in the finish areas.

Please use the toilets instead of the forest.

Please leave your cups and wrappers at the refreshment stations.
